

Good times... Cllr Andrew McGuinness, Margaret McGuinness, Minister John McGuinness, Extreme Pizza owner Carla Feely, Mick Galway and Patrick Feely

EXTREME FOOD

ON the Town visited Extreme Pizza on Kilkenny's Barrack Street recently for its launch. The outlet is owned by bubbly California native Carla Feely, who also owns the European rights to the franchise. There were a whole host of delicious pizzas available to sample on the night, and On the Town had to try very hard not to sample each and every one! We can highly recommend the vegetarian 'Drag it Thru the Garden' and also the scrummy 'Pandora's Box.'

Assisting Carla with the opening on the night were Minister John McGuinness and Kilkenny hurler Brian Hogan.

Extreme Pizza offers a unique service in its 'take and bake' option, which means you can take away an uncooked pizza and cook it at your leisure at home - a fantastic idea.

There was a huge crowd there on the night to wish Carla well, and On the Town would like to add its voice to those good wishes.

Pop in and sample some of the delicious offerings or call 056 777 7345 for delivery.

Happy staff... Sean, Melissa and Louise (above)

Chowing down... Kilkenny hurler Brian Hogan enjoying some pizza with owner Carla Feely

Pizza please... Frank Keogh with Frankle and Kate

Carla's two boys... Christopher, 4, and Cayden, 2, enjoying the launch party

Masterchefs... Jim Robinson and Dalibor Bistrovic with their culinary creations

Good times... Jim, Brian, Carla and Dalibor celebrate the launch of Extreme Pizza (above)

In the mood for food... D.D. Van Loben Sels; Carla's mum with Carla's brother in law Kenneth Feely and mum in law Peggy Feely. (left)

Good times...
 Cllr Andrew
 McGuinness,
 Margaret
 McGuinness,
 Minister John
 McGuinness,
 Extreme Pizza
 owner Carla
 Feely, Mick
 Galway and
 Patrick Feely

Pizza princesses...
 Saoi, Neveena
 and Lorraine
 (clockwise)

EXTREME FOOD

ON the Town visited Extreme Pizza on Killybeggs' Barrow Street recently for its launch. The outlet is owned by bubbly Cilliers native Carla Feely, who also owns the European rights to the franchise. There were a whole host of delicious pizzas available to sample on the night, and on the Town had to try based not to sample each and every one! We can highly recommend the vegetarian 'Dreg it Thru the Garden' and also the extremely 'Raiden's Box'.

Assisting Carla with the opening on the night were Minister John McGuinness and Killybeggs hurler Brian Higgins.

Extreme Pizza offers a unique service in its 'take and look' option, which means you can take away an uncooked pizza and cook it at your leisure at home - a fantastic idea.

There was a huge crowd there on the night in which Carla well, said on the Town would like to add its voice to those good wishes.

Masterfully... Jim Robinson and Ouilbhor Blackrock with their culinary creations

Pizza princess... Franzi Keegan with Franzi and Kuba

Carla's two boys... Christopher, 4, and Cayden, 2, enjoying the launch party

The Wilds Reception

Good times... Jim, Brian, Carla and Ouilbhor celebrate the launch of Extreme Pizzas (above)

In the mood for food... D.D. Van Loben Sels, Carla's mum, with Carla's brother to the left, Kenneth Feely and mum to the right, Peggy Feely

EXTREME FOOD

ON the Town visited Extreme Pizza on Kilkenny's Barrack Street recently for its launch. The outlet is owned by bubbly California native Carla Feely, who also owns the European rights to the franchise. There were a whole host of delicious pizzas available to sample on the night, and On the Town had to try very hard not to sample each and every one! We can highly recommend the vegetarian 'Drag it Thru the Garden' and also the scrummy 'Pandora's Box.'

Assisting Carla with the opening on the night were Minister John McGuinness and Kilkenny hurler Brian Hogan.

Extreme Pizza offers a unique service in its 'take and bake' option, which means you can take away an uncooked pizza and cook it at your leisure at home - a fantastic idea.

There was a huge crowd there on the night to wish Carla well, and On the Town would like to add its voice to those good wishes.

Pop in and sample some of the delicious offerings or call 056 777 7345 for delivery.

